Detailed Action

1. This Office Action is in response to the Application filed on 10/16/2003. Claims 1-11 are presented for examination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

3. Claims 1-3, 5-8 and 10-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by G. Camarillo (RFC 3486 – Compressing the Session Initiation Protocol).

4. As to claim 1, Camarillo teaches a method by which a UE (user equipment) device begins compressing messages it transmits to an SIP outbound proxy server, comprising:

the UE device sends a request message to the SIP outbound proxy server (the client sends an uncompressed OPTIONS request to its outbound proxy server); (Camarillo, section 4.1, paragraph 4); and the UE device analyzes a response message received from the SIP outbound proxy server in response to the request message to determine a compression parameter for use in compressing messages it sends to the SIP outbound proxy server (the outbound proxy server can provide an alternative SIP URI with the compression parameter "comp=sigcomp" in a Contact header field in a 200 OK response to the OPTIONS request) (Camarillo, section 4.1, paragraph 4).

5. As to claim 2, Camarillo teaches the method of claim 1, wherein the request message is an OPTIONS request message and the response message is a 200 OK message, and further wherein the UE device parses the response message to obtain the compression parameter (inherently, a SIP entity receiving a compressed message has to decompress and to parse it) (Camarillo, section 4.1, paragraph 4).

6. As to claim 3, Camarillo teaches the method of claim 1, further comprising the UE device alters an address for the SIP outbound proxy server previously stored so as to include the stored address and the compression parameter (i.e., adding the compression parameter to the address such as sip:alice@Atlanta.com; comp=sigcomp) (Camarillo, section 2).

7. As to claim 5, Camarillo teaches the method of claim 1, wherein the response message (42b) is any compressed message (since the UAC supports "SigComp", which is contained in the "Via" header field, i.e., indicating the response has to be compressed using SigComp) (Camarillo, section 2).

8. Claims 6-8 and 10 are corresponding apparatus claims of method claims 1-3 and 5; therefore, they are rejected under the same rationale.

9. Claim 11 is a corresponding program computer product claim of method claim 1; therefore, it is rejected under the same rationale.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

10. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

11. Claims 4 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Camarillo, in view of Bergenlid et al. (US 2003/0156578 A1), hereinafter referred as Bergenlid.

12. As to claim 4, Camarillo teaches the method of claim 1, but does not explicitly teach wherein the request message (32a) is a register message, and wherein the response message (32b) is a 401 (unauthorized) message.

In a related art, Bergenlid teaches a system and method for packet-based conversation service for a multimedia session in a mobile communications system, wherein the Mobile Terminal MT sends a SIP Register message via the primary PDP context and corresponding bearers to the IP Multimedia System IMS 36 and the IMS 36 responds with a SIP 401 Unauthorized message, if the user is not registered, the 401 message is sent to the user including a challenge (Bergenlid, paragraph [0048]).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine the teachings of Camarillo and Bergenlid to include the request message is a register message, and the response message is a 401 (unauthorized) message since such methods were conventionally employed in the art to allow the system to detect, challenge and identify authorized/unauthorized subscribers (mobile terminals or users) before initiating a communications session.

13. Claim 9 is a corresponding apparatus claim of method claim 4; therefore, it is rejected under the same rationale.

14. Further references of interest are cited on Form PTO-892, which is an attachment to this office action.

15. A shortened statutory period for reply to this action is set to expire THREE (3) months from the mailing date of this communication. See 37 CFR 1.134.
